AI TRADING WORLD

ABOUT US

The AI trade is still real, says Deepwater's Doug Clinton. Doug Clinton, Deepwater Asset Management co-founder, joins 'Closing Bell' to discuss the markets, earnings and valuations from the hyperscalers. AI analyses blockchain data, market trends, and trading volumes to determine the best times to buy and sell. AI trading bots can execute trades automatically, reducing human error. They also use machine learning to adapt to new market conditions and continuously refine their strategies. AI can automate trading strategies, manage portfolios, and execute trades quickly. But AI in trading also comes with risks, including algorithmic biases and system failures.
